RICHARD III

Wednesday 23rd July 2008
5:30pm – 10:00pm

“King for just two years and dead by the age of 32, no English monarch has fired the imagination, or created as much controversy as Richard III. Using Richard’s bid to take and keep the throne, Shakespeare creates possibly the most compelling and audacious stage villain of all time. This may be Tudor propaganda, but it is also great theatre. Immediate and exciting, a world where murder, battle and seduction are all shot through with Richard’s black humour and mordant wit. What better setting could there be to savour this great play than the haunting beauty of Rougemont’s wooded moat?”

You are invited to the Northcott Theatre Company presentation of Richard III on Wednesday 23rd July 2008 at Rougemont Gardens, Exeter, preceded by a pre-theatre meal at La Tasca, Bedford Street at 5:30pm. Please do join us with your guests.
